Programs

The N.C. Council for Women administers funds to a variety of programs that seek to improve the lives of women and their families. Displaced Homemaker programs provide a holistic approach to job searches by providing training, career choice assessment, transportation services and child care. Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault awareness intervention programs help individuals rebuild their lives.

The courts refer domestic violence offenders to abuser treatment programs which are certified by the N.C. Council for Women. Communities without a program are encouraged to learn more about the certification process to extend the network of abuser treatment programs.

The N.C. Council for Women provides the public with information on a variety of subjects impacting women's lives on its free listservs:

- Child Well-Being and Domestic Violence
- Converge

Register to receive either listserv at:
www.nccfwdvc.com/listservs.htm.

Through its partnership with N.C. Women United, the Council seeks to assess the major issues facing the women of North Carolina, making those issues known to the NC Legislature.

As a partner and participant in planning the Governor's Conference for Women, the Council brings topics important to women's lives in a full-day program of education, inspiration, and personal development.

Statewide Boards

N.C. Council for Women

The 20-member Council Board, appointed by the Governor, addresses issues including health, education, employment and safety of women in North Carolina, with a special emphasis on prevention of violence against women.

The 39-member Commission assesses statewide needs related to domestic violence and sexual assault. In collaboration with the Council, the Commission works to strengthen existing domestic violence and sexual assault programs while also examining the unmet needs of women and families in their effort to live in a violence-free environment.
