

Sample Guide E: Sources for Genealogical Assistance<sup>1</sup>

The Association of Professional Genealogists (APG) can assist in finding a professional genealogist. Their website has a directory that can be searched by geographic specialties and/or research specialties, one being American Indians. The website has bios, areas of expertise, and contact information for each genealogist. The web address is <https://www.apgen.org/>.

Many states have an, Association of Professional Genealogists Chapter, that is under the umbrella of the National group. The state chapters offer services which are more regionally relevant and their website has more information. The web address for the North Carolina Chapter of the Association of Professional Genealogists (NCAPG) is <https://ncapg.com/>.

In addition to the APG, there is an independent, non-profit certifying group that is nationally and internationally recognized. The Board for Certification of Genealogists (BCG) also has a directory of "certified" genealogists who can be searched by keywords, i.e.; location and specialties. The web address for the Board for Certification of Genealogists (BCG) is <https://bcgcertification.org/>.

---

<sup>1</sup> This is not an endorsement of any particular genealogist or genealogical association.