

Rep. Amos L. Quick III

North Carolina House of Representatives, District 58

Representative Amos Lewis Quick, III is the 17th senior pastor in the 106th year history of Calvary Baptist Church. A native of Greensboro, NC, Quick received his education at the University of NC at Wilmington in psychology. Throughout his career he has amassed an array of educational, social and civic recognitions and achievements. He has organized and led numerous grassroot community efforts aimed at providing needed services and training for children and families in poverty.

Since 2004, Quick has served on the Guilford County School Board of Education as the representative for District 9. While serving on the school board Quick was unanimously elected as the vice chairman of the Guilford County Board of Education for the 10th consecutive time. Since then he has been elected as the North Carolina State House Representative for District 58; he was officially sworn into this position on January 2017.

On October 3, 2015, Quick was recognized for his work and honored by his beloved James B. Dudley High School as a 2015 inductee into the Dudley High School's Sports Hall of Fame / Hall of Distinction.

Furthermore, under Quick's leadership and with the cooperation of members and ministries from his church, Calvary Baptist has re-emerged as a beacon of light and hope on the south side of High Point. In the future, the church plans to establish a social service organization to help address the needs of the community.

Quick is the father of two beautiful, accomplished daughters – Jasmine and Raven.
